

The Gift of God's Faithfulness

when the waters lay still and the sun shines
and the markets are up and when crime is down people they'll be right there for you but when skies growl and when wind blows

and when the waves rage well in this place where even the son of God gets betrayed it's hard to find much loyalty but you, Lord, are faithful you do not leave you do not quit

you do not give up on me no, you wait

you watch you empower

and I know
no matter the storm
you stand there in your great lighthouse looking out over the dark water you lean over the rail watching for me and waiting with blankets and warm food
