

LIVING HOPE

When I first came to Mexico, I wanted to live fully for God. I gave my life wholeheartedly to the work He placed before me. Over the years, I've been deeply grateful that He has kept my eyes on Him—guiding each step and reminding me what truly matters.

I've learned that a life well lived is rooted in the love of Jesus. Everything we do, everything we become, and all we accomplish flows from knowing we are deeply loved by a great and faithful God.

As we've carried out the vision He gave us, we discovered something vital: even the biggest dreams begin with small, faithful steps. Loving children. Walking with them as they grow. Pointing them to the hope and love of Jesus. What starts small can become greater than we ever imagined. We've learned not to despise small beginnings. Each one holds the power to change lives, restore families, and bring hope to entire communities.

LIVING HOPE

Psalm 127:1 reminds us, “Unless the Lord builds the house, the builders labor in vain.” Every accomplishment, every life touched, and every ministry grown has been the work of God’s hand—guiding, sustaining, and multiplying our efforts far beyond what we could do alone.

Here’s the truth I want to share with you: God’s love isn’t distant or limited to a few. It’s available to you today. Whatever small step of faith you take, whatever act of kindness or courage you offer, He can multiply it into something eternal. He can use your heart, your hands, and your presence to bring hope, healing, and transformation to those around you. Trust that your life, rooted in Him, is already making a difference—more than you could ever imagine..
